“The first challenge is to effectively evaluate a company to determine its competitive advantage; and then, formulate and execute a plan for sustained, profitable growth. The comprehensive integration of sales techniques, operations and strategic planning is key to a successful growth process.”

George Brown’s extensive business expertise and knowledge have been gained through a professional career spanning more than 32 years of hands-on management with complete P&L responsibility. His executive experiences as Chief Executive Officer, Chief Operating Officer and other senior-level posts encompass several major industries including general aviation, aerospace, consumer retail products, and industrial durable goods.

Additionally, Mr. Brown has extensive experience managing public offerings and SEC reporting, mergers and acquisitions, refinancing, building new facilities, business relocations, company turnarounds, and negotiating international sales and manufacturing agreements. He has directed businesses involved in the manufacture and sale of both high technology and standard process goods with sales ranging from $22 million to $200 million. These products include aircraft and aircraft components, furniture, storage systems, consumer power tools, air conditioning systems, compressors, valves and pressure vessels, food service products and consumer disposable goods. In each case, he has demonstrated a record of improved business performance and increased profit.

Mr. Brown holds a BS degree in Business Administration, Management and Finance from Oklahoma City University.
